The First, But Not The Last

Coleman Athletic Association brought to a close the 1966-67 hockey season on Friday evening, June 9th with a Minor Hockey Banquet held in the Coleman Elk's Hall. The Master of Ceremonies for the occasion was the Association President Mr. Peter Walker.

The program opened with "O Canada" followed with a grace by Mr. P. Walker, then all sat down to a delicious ham and turkey supper served by the staff of the Satellite Restaurant.

After supper Chairman Walker introduced the head table consisting of Mr. and Mrs. N. Hammer, Mrs. P. Walker and the guest Johnny McKenzie of the Boston Bruins. President Walker then outlined the progress of the Assn. throughout the past year, and reminded the parents that children need their support. He also said that this banquet was such a success we will have a bigger one next year. He then expressed his thanks to all who aided him in the past year, and extended a special thanks to the coaches and boys.

Mr. Walker on behalf of the Athletic Assn. then called to the front, Bro. N. Hammer of Coleman Elks, Asst. Chief Ed Amell of the Fire Dep't and Foreman Stan Berry of Bohemian Ranch. He then thanked them for the donations of uniforms and presented each with an 8 x 10 color photo of the team dressed in their uniforms. An applause of thanks was given by all.

The 1966-67 Champion Mighty Mites, the Maple Leafs were honored with the Ed

Corson Trophy put up by Mr. J. Kufinoff. Team captain Bill Gibson received the cup on behalf of his team and all the team was presented with a crest. Awards for most valuable players went to David Barrass, goalie of the Leafs and Dean Collings of the Rangers. All the players of the 1966-67 season were then presented crests from the Assn. by Johnny McKenzie.

Team coaches were then honored with a gift by the team captains. Coaches were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Hopkins Jr.; Mr. D. Pow, Mr. E. Spiveak, Mr. J. Beguin, Mr. M. Taje and K. Taje and J. Trotz.

Mr. J. Colwell then introduced Johnny McKenzie of the Boston Bruins who spoke of the points of a good hockey player as well as what is desired in a top rank player. He also reminded the parents the importance of their support. A question period followed and Mr. McKenzie signed autographs. He then talked with the boys and coaches. A great night came to a close with the "Queen" and thank you to all who helped make the night a success.

A special thanks was extended to the Satellite Restaurant and staff for such superb service. Well done gang. Thanks.

NATIONAL VETERANS' WEEK

There are approximately 975,000 veterans of Canada's wars living today - and most of them will be kept mighty busy from Sunday, June 11 to Saturday, June 17.

By royal proclamation this period has been declared Veterans' Week - and a busy program of events to celebrate the occasion has been arranged across Canada.

It is fitting that during Centennial year we should honor the men and women who, by their sacrifices in times of war, and their good citizenship in times of peace, have played a major part in building the Canada we know today.

Veterans have been asked to wear their discharge button during the Week and this, in itself, will lead to much frantic activity, as many may have trouble finding "the badge of honor" which they have not worn for more than 20 years.

As we pay tribute to the veterans who live, there will be a special thought for those who died - more than 112,000 who made the greatest sacrifice of all and are buried in 70 countries around the world.

OF MANY THINGS

(By Ambrose Hills)

Farmers Retaliate

TV comedians often picture farmers as if we were all a bunch of hillbillies, speaking cracker-barrel dialect. We don't mind, too much, as long as we can retaliate once in a while.

A TV comic got himself a horse recently, and tried to find a farmer to stable it for him here in our Fraser Valley, near Cloverdale. At Greenhorn Farm we were willing to keep his horse for $30 a month, plus the manure. He wanted a bargain so he went around to the neighbors, who, of course, reported everything back to me, as good neighbors should.

"I told him," the next farmer said, "that I'd keep his horse for $20, and the manure, and I could see at once that he was a bargain hunter, because he said that he would check around and call me back. But he didn't. He went down to Jim Parker's place and tried to make a deal there."

Parker reports the conversation this way:

TV Comic: "I've been given two estimates on stabling my horse. One for $30 a month and the manure; the other for $20 a month plus the manure. What would your price be?"

: "Well, guess I could stable him for $10 a month."

TV Comic: "And the manure?"

Parker (shaking his head): "No... at that price there wouldn't be any manure!"

Of course it is only a yarn, but it does have a moral, one that farmers, practically every day, discover: You get back only what you put in to most endeavors.

You don't reap, unless you first cultivate and sow. You don't succeed, unless you first set a goal and then bend every effort to reach it. Canada, in this Centennial Year, has proved that it can accomplish a great deal by setting forth goals and projects and then going to work at them with a will. Let it be hoped that by the fervor and energy generated this year by Centennial efforts and by the fabulous EXPO 67 accomplishment will carry on through in the years ahead. If each of us captures this spirit and keeps it alive, the future of Canada is certain.

New Course Of Training

A new course of training, unique to education in Canada, will be offered this summer by the Division of Vocational Education of the Department of Education in the province of Alberta.

The Minister of Education, the Hon. R. H. McKinnon, announced today that a school for the training of hospital nursing orderlies will be opened in Edmonton to train personnel for Alberta hospitals. This course was developed jointly with the Alberta Department of Health and operating hospitals in the province. The hospitals will participate by providing study and work experience sessions to complement the school training.

Due to the present acute shortage of men in the field of nursing orderly service, it is expected a heavy response to the opportunity to obtain formal training in this occupation will take place when the first class is started this coming summer. Previously, training was provided by individual hospitals and nursing orderlies received their training on the job.

It is hoped the formal training, now to be provided by the province through the Department's Division of Vocational Education, will attract a larger number of men who will take advantage of the opportunity to train for an interesting and worthwhile career and, thereby, relieve the shortage in this medical service area.

Entrance requirements for the training as a Nursing Orderly include a minimum educational standing of Grade X or its equivalent. Applicants should be between the age of 18 and 55.

Expo's Barnyard Really Swings

MONTREAL — Mod dancing is "in" at Expo 67's Man the Provider theme pavilion. For the barnyard animals in the children's farm, that is.

For children who have never seen chickens go-go dancing to the strains of piano music banged out by a rabbit, there are surprises in store.

The whole barnyard is groovy. A pigeon flies out of its cage and rings a bell, and a duck slides on his backside down a ramp into the water.

The piano-playing rabbit can hardly come across with Saint-Saens' "Carnival of the Animals" but whoever heard of a hep chick doing a frug to square music?

The animal act demonstrator holds up a card on which there are dots of various colors. "Judy," the demonstrator calls. "Come out and show me a green dot." A white hen strolls out of her cage, pecks the green dot and returns.

"Jump through the loop, Jack," he tells the rabbit.

"Donald . . . find the fish." A duck slides down a ramp into the water and dives for an artificial fish at the bottom of a transparent pool.

Alfred, the pigeon, is summoned. He walks out of his cage, looks around a bit, and flies to a tiny bell and rings it.

The animals were trained by Grant Evans, of Animal Behavior Enterprises, Hot Springs, Arkansas. Three months are required to train the animals.

Evans' theory is to train them to perform acts similar to their normal functions. The go-go dancing chicken shuffles its feet on a board as it would normally do in the poultry lot. The rabbit paws at the keys of the toy piano for a food reward because he paws through leaves and grass to feed himself in his natural environment.

Learning to locate a dot and pecking for identification is reasonably natural for a chicken which must peck to gather food. All the animals are rewarded with food after performing their acts.

Man the Provider, which is located just beyond the USSR pavilion on Ile Notre-Dame, is the largest of Expo's theme exhibits. It is largely devoted to the problems of adequate food production in a world of rapidly growing population.

Letter to the Editor

Edmonton, Alberta,
May 24, 1967.

The Editor,
The Coleman Journal,
Coleman, Alberta.

Dear Sir:

Forensic clinics have been recommended to government at provincial and federal levels, by the Canadian Mental Health Association, the John Howard Society, the Canadian Psychiatric Association, and other organizations.

These clinics have far-flung value that has been recognized and acted upon in British Columbia, Ontario and Quebec, as well as in many of the United States. Offences against society are often symptoms of emotional disturbances which could be successfully treated if recognized.

Forensic clinics would, in part, fulfill an important preventive function, while placing diagnosis and treatment in the hands of qualified people.

For example, we are convinced that there are far too many convictions of border-line schizophrenia, defectives, alcoholics, and others who are in need of treatment, not punishment.

A forensic clinic would provide not only diagnostic services, but also treatment (teaching and research facilities, for courts, probation services, mental health clinics, hospitals, community agencies and physicians. It would also serve self-referred persons with similar problems.

One important function of the forensic clinic that has perhaps not been emphasized sufficiently, is that it would encourage development of the sub-specialty of forensic psychiatry.

Yours truly,

C. Robert Dickey.

by JOHN W. FISHER
CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

Paul Hartman scanned the early morning sky and climbed into the cockpit of the Nieuport 17. He looked up at the Vickers gun, mounted on the top wing, and gave the nod to his mechanic. With an initial belch of blue smoke and an angry snarl his rotary engine burst into life. Hartman pushed the throttle forward and in the space of a few yards down the grassy strip, the Nieuport sprang into the cloudless blue.

Sounds like the opening paragraph of a World War I flying story. But it isn't. Paul Hartman is a wing commander in the RCAF and the description fits any fair weather morning at Ottawa's Rockcliffe Airport the past few weeks.

Hartman and several other veteran pilots of the RCAF have been rehearsing for a colorful air show at Rockcliffe on June 10 to mark the 50th anniversary of military flying in Canada. The June 10 show will be just one more of the type of exciting events in 1967 which are making Centennial year a remarkable one.

The second Saturday in June usually is set aside for Armed Forces Day. Since the year 1967 is the 50th anniversary of military flight the usual Armed Forces Day at Ottawa is something special. If you are travelling through or anywhere near the National Capital on that day, be sure to see the show at Rockcliffe.

There will be two hours of flying by vintage airplanes including these types: the Nieuport 17 which Bishop flew; the Sopwith Triplane which made Raymond Collishaw famous; the Sopwith Snipe which Barker used in the closing months of the war; a fleet Finch biplane which many Canadians used in the Commonwealth Air Training Plan during World War II. There will be other wood, wire and canvas relics and more to see in the show.

For an additional hour and 21 minutes there will be exciting aerobatics by modern service aircraft and a special show by the special flying display group of the year, the Golden Centennaires.

It may be the last opportunity for some of us to see the old aircraft flying although they may be viewed any time during summer months at their usual positions in the National Air Museum at Rockcliffe.

It may be the last opportunity, too, for some of our pilots to feel what it was like flying in 1917 and 1918, for the few flying hours allowed on those old types are rare indeed.

One senior officer with thousands of hours time on modern airplanes was as excited as a grade school boy when he landed from his first rehearsal flight in the Sopwith Triplane. Before the antique had bounced to a stop on the grass strip he was yelling to the onlookers: "That was the greatest thrill of my whole flying career!"

3-Day Celebration Set For The Natal Area

Plans have been made for a three-day celebration in this area June 30 and July 1 and 2.

The Sparwood District Centennial Celebrations Committee, composed of delegates from Natal, Michel, Sparwood and Elk Valley, met recently to plan the Dominion Day events.

The area committee, known as the July 1st Celebrations Committee, will consist of Charlie Podrasky, chairman; Mrs. Sally Travis, secretary; and Earl Tabor, treasurer.

Various committees and chairmen will be selected to take charge of the different celebration activities. There will be a parade, queen contest, carnival and sports events. The program for the three-day celebrations will open with a parade Saturday, July 1st, at 11:00 a.m., starting from the Michel-Natal elementary school. The Natal-Michel and Sparwood high school bands are expected to take part. Efforts will also be made to contact other bands.

Crowning of the queen will take place at the arena following the parade.

Presentation of parade prizes will take place after the crowning of the queen.

Two candidates, Miss Mary Czek of Sparwood, and Miss

Sophie Shlemko of Natal, both Sparwood secondary school students, are contestants in this year's Dominion Day Sparwood and District Centennial Queen Contest.

The sale of tickets for the queen contest is in progress with the public in general asked to support the candidates with each ticket purchased giving the candidate 25 votes.

The carnival will be held in the arena starting with a Millionaire's Night Friday and Saturday.

Sunday activities will include a gymkhana, sponsored by the Elk Valley Riding Club, scheduled to start at 1 p.m., at the Elk Valley corral. Prizes will be given to the winners.

A variety concert will conclude the celebrations Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at the Sparwood auditorium.

Saturday activities will start with a grand parade from the elementary school to the arena at 11 a.m. with floats, decorated cars, bicycles and bands taking part.

Special prizes will also be given for kiddies' costumes. Out of town floats wishing to enter the parade are asked to contact Charlie Haigh, Michel, B. C.

JUST THINK !!

(By A. E. Bridges, Alberta Fire Commissioner)

Can you recall when heating was principally by coal and wood and lighting by kerosene lamps? Just think how modern fuels and electricity have changed our way of life.

However, every new development does bring some accompanying risks. At least the Fire Commissioner finds it so by reason of reports with accidents with natural gas and fires caused by electric wiring and electric appliances. We would hope that safety technology would overcome the early risks accompanying use of convenient gas fuels and with extensive use of electricity.

It is interesting to find that 40 years ago 47 per cent of all fires were dwelling fires in Alberta, whereas now 53 per cent of all fires are dwelling fires. Forty years ago heating equipment caused 25 per cent of all dwelling fires whereas today heating equipment causes only 4 per cent of all dwelling fires. Forty years ago electrical equipment accounted for 4 per cent of all dwelling fires and today with the wide use of electricity and electrical appliances, these cause 9 per cent of all dwelling fires.

It would seem then that greater control of heating equipment has been gained by automatic safety controls on all types of heating appliances but from recent accounts of accidents with gas fuel we know that gas burning appliances still can be dangerous if gas escapes or when appliances are not properly supervised. Recently a man died in the City of Wetaskiwin, also, a woman was seriously burned in the City of Edmonton and in the northern community of Grande Prairie two adults were severely burned from a gas explosion in a farm home. One mistake while handling gas fuel could be a fatal mistake.

It seems ridiculous to say — "Never strike a match to look for a gas leak", but actually every year some people suffer severe burns while lighting gas burning appliances or ovens. Gas companies have a very comprehensive safety program and their employees are always ready to respond to examine any gas burning appliance when gas leaks are suspected. Just Think!

Think of the dangers that are present when you detect some gas leak. Get out of the building at once and call the gas company.

Just Think before you light a match or before you flick on a light switch. That precaution could well save your life.

Blairmore Removed From Designated Area

OTTAWA, Ont., June 2, 1967 — Further changes in the Area Development Program of the Federal Department of Industry involving the creation of three new designated areas in the Province of Manitoba were announced today by the Hon. C. M. Drury, Minister of Industry.

Mr. Drury also announced that one designated area, Blairmore, Alberta, where employment has improved significantly as a result of the program, has been removed from the list. The minister expressed satisfaction with the results of the program since its inception four years ago and cited Blairmore as an example of the achievements of the program.

The new designated areas are the Canada Manpower Centre of Selkirk, Census Division 2 and the portion of Census Division 3 adjacent to the existing designated area of Brandon. Mr. Drury said that as a result of the review no changes in the Area Development Program as it affects the Province of Saskatchewan will be made at present.

The minister also said that no changes will be made in the program as it affects the Atlantic Provinces.

Further announcements concerning the operation of the program in the remaining provinces will be made at the satisfactory conclusion of consultations with the provincial governments, Mr. Drury said.

There are now 91 designated areas in all 10 provinces where Area Development benefits provide for cash grants to manufacturing and processing industries that establish new facilities in such areas and to existing industries that carry out significant expansions. To date, capital investment in designated areas across Canada totals about $1.5 billion and 44,000 new jobs will be created.

Salt on Life—

All human life is lived in a salty environment. Each of us consists of a number of cells gathered into organs all bathed in a salty fluid. Salt is so precious to the human body that nature has provided us with a mechanism that the amount needed is indefinitely preserved. The kidneys clear the block of excess water and other waste materials and at the same time remove a certain quantity of salt. When the salt is present in excess quantity it is permitted to pass out, but when the salt reserve is low the body holds it to help preserve life and normal function.

Salt is in addition to being essential to the body, is an aid in nutrition. It brings on the natural flavors and makes good foods taste even better.

It is difficult for a healthy person to get a dangerous excess of salt since over-salted food is usually unpalatable and therefore rejected. Up to a point, the kidneys eliminate it and beyond that vomiting and diarrhoea should rid the body of the surplus.

Salt deficiency, however, is both possible and not uncommon. Most often it is minor, but it can be serious.

In normal persons salt deficiency develops most often as a result of loss through perspiration. Men doing strenuous work for long periods of time can lose up to one quart of water and one gram of salt per hour. Both must be replaced.

A sound rule of health is to take extra salt in the summer time. It isn't necessary to overdo salting to the point of making foods unsavory.

Salt is important to the digestive system. In the gastric juices, the chlorine of salt aids in the manufacture of hydrochloric acid necessary to digestion in the stomach. Chlorine also becomes part of the extra-cellular tissue fluid in the body, as does sodium.

Salt also aids in the production of bile, which stimulates digestion in the intestines. It stimulates the peristaltic movement of the digestive tract and to a certain extent affects muscle strength. Salt is also employed as a carrier for iodine, another element essential to humans and animals.

The over 40 years that have passed since iodized salt was introduced in this country in 1924, have dimmed the memory of the days when many school children suffered from endemic goitre which also disfigured many adults.

Man's historic regard for salt as a necessity has been abundantly confirmed by science which values it as all-important to the body's well-being and one of the principal chemicals in the human make-up.

Young Wildlife Protected

The Fish and Wildlife Division of the Alberta Department of Lands and Forests is requesting residents of the province to refrain from picking up and taking home wild animals and birds.

Young birds and animals will soon be appearing throughout the province and Albertans are often tempted to make pets out of the more helpless specimens.

Misplaced affections often cause serious harm and, in many cases, death.

Staff of the Fish and Wildlife Division are required by law to prevent people from handling or capturing young wild animals.
